THE FARMER CITIZEN AT WAR

By Howard R. Tolley

The Macmillan Company, 1943. 318p. 281.12 T57F
(Autographed copy)

Comments by Earl Grigsby, Assoc. Soc. Sci. Analyst, BAE.
Member of Atlanta Branch Library Advisory Committee

THE FARMER CITIZEN AT WAR is an excellent thesis on "130,000,000 shares in winning the war." The chief tenets of the book are (1) the ways in which farmers have participated or can participate fully in winning the war, (2) the magnitude of the governmental jobs undertaken by major war agencies, and (3) the part agriculture can and should play in building a greater nation.

Dr. Tolley states in Chapter IV that "a time of stress sends man back to first principles." FARMER CITIZEN AT WAR is a handbook of these "first principles" and a book that every research worker in agriculture should possess.
